In view of the decision (dated 10/18/2007) from the petition dated 8/9/2006, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. The new grounds of rejection is set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) initiate a new appeal by filing a notice of appeal under 37 CFR 41.31 followed by an appeal brief under 37 CFR 41.37. The previously paid notice of appeal fee and appeal brief fee can be applied to the new appeal. If, however, the appeal fees set forth in 37 CFR 41.20 have been increased since they were previously paid, then appellant must pay the difference between the increased fees and the amount previously paid.

A Supervisory Patent Examiner (SPE) has approved of reopening prosecution by signing below:

A new non-final action in response to the granted petition on 10/18/2007 is herein attached below.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 6-8, 12, and 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Koneval et al., (6,324,788 B1). As shown in Figure 9 below, Koneval et al., (6,324,788 B1) discloses a powered slider drive interface for opening and closing a vehicle slider panel (216) across a window aperture of a back-lite of a vehicle (see figure 1 for the vehicle and back-lite) comprising a slider panel (216), a regulator/driver bracket (212), at least first, second, third, and fourth mechanical stops mounted on the slider panel (216) and the regulator (212), slider/guide tracks (210/18, column 3, line 41) positioned above and below the slider panel (216), a cable (220) mounted on each end of the regulator/driver bracket (212) such that as the electric reversible motor (24) drives the cable (220) to and fro, the stops are brought into mechanical contact with one another to thereby move the sliding panel (216) across the opening/aperture of a vehicle back-lite.

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3-5, 9-11, and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Koneval et al., (6,324,788 B1) in view of MacMillan (6,435,636 B1) and Hirsch et al United States Patent number 6207911. All of the elements of the instant invention are discussed in detail above except providing a EDPM plastic bumper. MacMillan (6,435,636 B1) discloses a plastic bumper combination thereof.

Art Unit: 3634

And Hirsch et al United States Patent number 6207911 teaches that EPDM is a durable and energy absorbing bumper material, suitable for use in automobiles.

15 Preferably, the bumper body is formed of a flexibly resilient and semi-rigid material appropriate for the door-stopping function thereof, such as, e.g., rubber or a suitable elastomer. A preferred material for the bumper body is an EPDM (ethylene propylene diene monomer) elastomer.

The bumper body 16 is formed of a resilient yet semi-rigid material, which may be rubber or a durable elastomer. A preferred material for the bumper body is an EPDM (ethylene propylene diene monomer) elastomer. The bumper body 16 is of a strength and thickness sufficient to make it durable enough to serve as a door stop, or energy absorbing damper, when in place in a vehicle.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide Koneval et al., ('788) with a plastic bumper as taught by MacMillan (6,435,636 B1) and Hirsch et al United States Patent number 6207911 since an EPDM bumper allows a smooth transition between starting and stopping of an element which is slide in a track.
